Memorandum of Delegated Legislation

Section 43 which is being substituted for the existing section under clause 6 of the Bill empowers Government to prescribe the qualification of the members constituting the Agricultural Lands Tribunal and the conditions of service and all other matters relating to the constitution or organisation of the Tribunal. The delegation is of a normal and routine nature.

Financial Memorandum

Government may have to incur some expenditure on the appointment of Tribunals under section 43 or on officers appointed to perform the functions of the Tribunal under sub-section (2) of section 43. It is, however, not possible to indicate the exact expenditure that will be required on this account since the appointment of these Tribunals will be made after noticing the volume of cases which are required to be dealt with by the Tribunal under the provisions of the Act. If the work load is quite small (which at present appears to be the case) the powers of the Tribunal will be conferred on the existing Mamlatdars and in that case no additional expenditure will have to be incurred.

Statement of Objects and Reasons

In the course of the implementation of the Goa, Daman and Diu Agricultural Tenancy Act, 1964, it has been found necessary to carry out certain amendments in the Act. The Bill seeks to carry out these amendments. In the following notes on clauses of the Bill, the important amendments which are sought to be made under the Bill are explained:

Clause 2(2) and (3) and clause 3: It has been noticed that in this territory there is a system of the same land being cultivated by different persons as tenants during the two cultivating seasons, "Sard" and "Vaingan" in a year. The provisions of the Tenancy Act have been drafted keeping in view single tenancy in respect of any land as is the practice all over the country. The system of dual tenancies is peculiar to Goa. It is, therefore, necessary to amend the Act for the purpose of recognising these dual tenancies so as to give protection to both the tenants in respect of the land cultivated by them in different seasons. This is sought to be achieved by these clauses.

Clause 4: This clause seeks to make the consequential amendments which are necessary as a result of the recognition of dual tenancies.

Clause 5: it has been noticed that in many cases lands which are cultivated during both the seasons of a year are cultivated only during one cultivating season and are left fallow during the other. Under the existing provisions of section 36, the management of such lands cannot be assumed by Government on the ground that they have remained uncultivated for two consecutive years. Sub-clause (1) of this clause, therefore, seeks to provide that if such land is not cultivated for two consecutive years during one of the cultivating seasons, the lands will be liable to be assumed under management under section 36.

Certain cases of lands lying uncultivated have been noticed where the lands can be brought under cultivation after making improvements on the land at considerable cost or labour or both. In such cases cultivators are unwilling to come forward to take such land on lease and bring it under cultivation if they are required to pay the normal rent of one-sixth of the produce payable according to the provisions of the Act, since this does not tend to repay them the investment made by them in the improvement of the land. To encourage such cultivators to bring the land under cultivation, this clause seeks to empower the manager of the uncultivated land, which is assumed under management under section 36, to lease out such land to cultivators and remit to the lessee the whole or part of the rent for a maximum period of five years.

Where the management of any land is assumed by Government on the ground that it has remained uncultivated for two consecutive years and it is found that the land was in the possession of a tenant, there is no justification for allowing such defaulting tenant to enjoy the protection of the Act. Sub-clause (3) of this clause, therefore, seeks to provide that in such cases the defaulting tenant will cease to enjoy any rights or privileges under the provisions of the Act.

Clause 6: The work which has been entrusted to the Agricultural Lands Tribunal under the provisions of the Act is at the taluka level. Considering the paucity of judicially qualified persons for being appointed at the taluka level as members of the Agricultural Lands Tribunal, it is necessary to take powers to Government to appoint officers of the grade of Mamlatdar to function as such Tribunals. This clause seeks to give such power to Government.

Clause 7: This seeks to make consequential amendments.

Clause 8: At present the powers of revision over the appellate orders of the Collector are conferred on Government and Government has delegated these powers to the Revenue Secretary. It is expedient that the powers of revision are exercised by an independent Tribunal considering the fact that the jurisdiction of the civil court is barred in all tenancy proceedings. This clause, therefore, seeks to confer the revisional jurisdiction on the Administrative Tribunal constituted under the Goa, Daman and Diu Administrative Tribunal Act, 1965.

Clause 9, 10 and 11: These clauses seek to carry out consequential amendments.

Clause 12: This clause seeks to exempt the lands vested in the Custodian under the Goa, Daman and Diu Administration of Evacuee Property Act, 1964, from the provisions of the Act.

The Administrator has recommended the introduction and Consideration of the Bill under section 23 of the Government of Union Territories Act, 1963.
